RREEF Property Trust's Offering Declared Effective

</globalassets/rreef-home-page/030-investor-relations/03040-press-releases/1.-press-release-rpt-effective_jan-2013.pdf>

RREEF Property Trust announced today that its registration statement pertaining to its public offering of up to $2.5 billion in shares of common stock was declared effective by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission. RREEF Property Trust intends to use the net proceeds from its offering to invest in a diversified portfolio of high quality, income-producing commercial real estate properties, primarily in the office, industrial, retail and multifamily sectors as well as stock of publicly traded REITs and other real estate companies, and debt backed by real estate.

Risk Factors

An investment in shares of RREEF Property Trust's ("RPT") common stock involves significant risks and is intended only for investors with a long-term investment horizon who do not require immediate liquidity or guaranteed income. Some of the more significant risks relating to an investment in shares of RPT common stock include those listed below:

RPT has a limited operating history, and there is no assurance that RPT will achieve its investment objectives.

Other than the investments identified in our prospectus, you will not have the opportunity to evaluate our investments before we make them.

RPT's shares should be considered as having only limited liquidity and at times may be illiquid. Because RPT does not expect that there will ever be a public trading market for shares of its common stock, redemption of shares by RPT will likely be the only way for you to dispose of your shares promptly.

Because the vast majority of RPT's assets will consist of properties that cannot generally be liquidated rapidly without impacting RPT's ability to realize full value upon their disposition, RPT may not always have sufficient resources to satisfy redemption

This is a "best efforts" offering. If RPT is not able to raise a substantial amount of capital in the near term, it may have difficulties investing in properties, and RPT's ability to achieve its investment objectives could be adversely affected.

RPT's investments in properties may be affected by an unfavorable real estate market and general economic conditions, which could decrease the value of those assets and reduce RPT's NAV.

RPT's board of directors may change certain of its investment and operational policies without stockholder approval, which could alter the nature of your investment.

RPT's use of financial leverage increases the risk of an investment and could hinder RPT's ability to pay distributions to its stockholders.

If RPT fails to qualify as a REIT and no relief provisions apply, its NAV per share and cash available for distribution to stockholders could materially decrease. Even if relief provisions allow RPT to maintain REIT status, it may incur a material tax liability.

RPT has limited operating history. As a result, an investment in RPT is speculative. In addition, investors will not acquire an investment in RPT's advisor.

NOT AN OFFER TO SELL SECURITIES

requests. As a result, our redemption plan contains limitations on the number of shares we will redeem in any calendar quarter. RPT's board of directors has the right to modify or suspend the redemption plan if it deems such action to be in the best interest of stockholders.

The amount of distributions RPT may pay, if any, is uncertain. Until December 31, 2015, expense support from our advisor contributed to funding our distributions. RPT may pay distributions from sources other than cash flow from operations, including, without limitation, the sale of assets, borrowings or offering proceeds, and RPT has no limits on the amounts it may pay from such sources. Payment of distributions from sources other than cash flow from operations may reduce the amount of capital RPT ultimately invests in real estate, which may negatively impact the value of your investment and RPT's daily NAV per share.

The purchase and redemption price for shares of RPT common stock is based on RPT's NAV per share, as calculated by BNY Mellon under the supervision of our advisor, and not on any public trading market. Because the valuation methodologies used to appraise RPT's properties involve subjective judgments and estimates, the daily NAV may not accurately reflect the actual price at which these assets could be liquidated on any given day. Further, rapidly changing market conditions or material events may not be fully reflected in RPT's daily NAV. The resulting potential disparity in RPT's NAV may inure to the benefit of stockholders whose share are redeemed or new purchasers of RPT common stock, depending on whether RPT's published NAV per share for such class is overstated or understated. In addition, RPT's NAV does not reflect all payments made on our behalf by our advisor pursuant to our expense support agreement. Such payments will be deducted from our NAV as and when they are reimbursed to our advisor.

RPT is dependent on its advisor to select its investments and conduct its operations. The advisor will face conflicts of interest as a result of, among other things, time constraints, allocation of investment opportunities and the fact that RPT will pay substantial fees to the advisor based on our NAV, the calculation of which it is responsible for overseeing.

Because our advisory agreement and our dealer manager agreement (including the substantial fees our advisor and its affiliates receive thereunder) were not negotiated at arm's length, their terms may not be as advantageous to us as those available from unrelated third parties.
